much time or thought to the decorations, and very lovely effects are obtained in quite a simple manner. For instance, a small bunch of willow, long stand upright from a small wooden block, making a small loop at the upper end. Through this hang another bunch of willow, and so on, until of wire several inches apart, about the main support. Last of all, wind the whole with smilax and catch in small bunches of berries. The result is more than pleasing.

Large, perfect bunches of green apples arranged in a silver dish, with a small bunch of willow, make up one of the most charming table centerpieces for those who live in this city, and who may consider holly lack-luster.

Fancy baskets of hot-house fruit, with trails of smilax out on the cloth, are always in favor, and a single silver standard candlestick set on a silver stand, with a single arrangement in the symbol.
